Police Radio Training School,
VIP Road, Indore-5, Madhya Pradesh.

Respected Sir,

I am writing this letter to express my profound appreciation for all the efforts that you are putting through programs like the "4th National Cyber Crime Training Program held at the PRTS, Indore from 10th to 22nd February 2014 and in which you gave me the honor by inviting and providing a platform to speak on the most delicate issues of Cyber Crime and Cyber Laws to the most professional and best of Police Officers coming from various States all across India.

The global nature of the internet has allowed criminals to commit almost any illegal activity anywhere in the world changing the picture of committing conventional offences with the help of the latest technology and not with conventional weapons, be it defaming a person on facebook to launching cyber terrorism attacks on a country. In my opinion, identifying an enemy at the border is possible however finding the enemy within is very difficult which makes the investigation for Police officers a hectic and tedious job. The Police have to be updated with the modern means of technology and the latest developments in the field of investigation as well as Law.

The efforts that you are putting towards the attainment of this goal by allocating the best of resources and training Police Officers in such way that they are prepared to tackle any Cyber incident in the best possible manner is really appreciable. I have no words to express your commitment towards the service of this nation in your own best possible manner. It is the need of the time to have such dedicated officers like you because only a good professional can create a new breed of dedicated and committed officers.

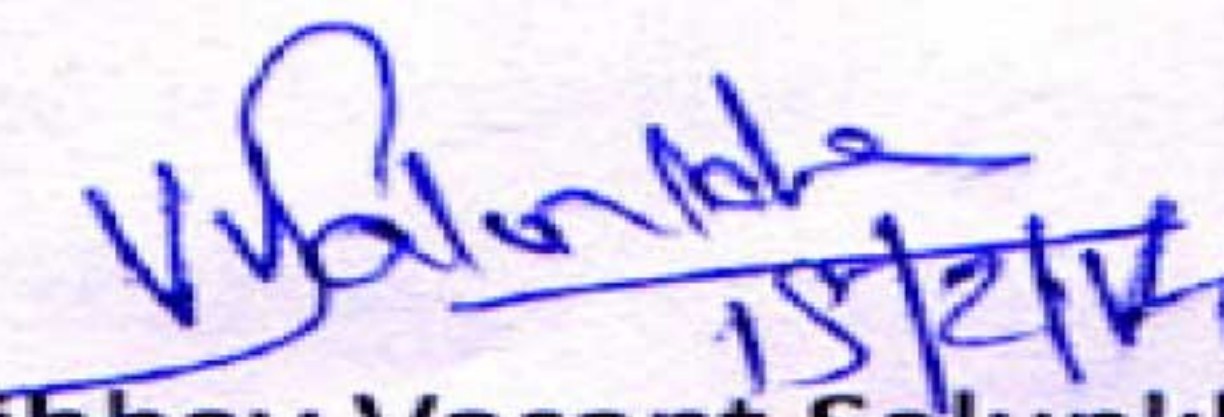

It is said that "Justice Delayed is Justice Denied". But I know that if proper investigation is done in a reasonable time, Justice cannot be delayed. You are performing this important task of creating the best of investigators who can not only complete investigation in appropriate time but also explain the crucial issues pertaining to cyber crime as well as digital evidence to the Court of Law.

I wish to provide my contribution to your efforts in future as you are giving me an opportunity to provide my service to this great cause.

I salute you Sir.

JAI HIND
